

Ideals Socially

Friends who demonstrate kindness, curiosity, motivation, intelligence, and open-mindedness

[People] whom one knows and with whom one has a bond of mutual affection, typically exclusive of sexual or family relations who demonstrate the quality of being friendly, generous, and considerate, a strong desire to know or learn something, the reason or reasons one has for acting or behaving in a particular way, the ability to acquire and apply knowledge and skills, and the willingness to search actively for evidence against one's favored beliefs, plans, or goals, and to weigh such evidence fairly when it is available

Peers continue to progress in their goals

A person of the same age, status, or ability as an[y] other specified person continue(s) to progress in their ambition or effort; an aim or desired result

Society valuing each member and non-frivolous activities

The aggregate of people living together in a more or less ordered community valuing each person, animal, or plant belonging to [the aggregate] and [valuing] things, not lacking importance, seriousness, or a sound basis, that a person or group does or has done

Physically

Located in a comfortable, peaceful, and productive area

Located in an [area] which provid[es] physical ease and relaxation, free from disturbance, and br[ings] forth [a product]

Access to resources and facilities that enable fulfillment

Access to a stock or supply of money, materials, staff, and other assets that can be drawn on by a person or organization in order to function effectively and a place, amenity, or piece of equipment provided for a particular purpose that enable the achievement of something desired, promised, or predicted

Space that embody the ethos of the people in it

The dimensions of height, depth, and width within which all things exist and move embod[ies] the nature, disposition, and customs, of those without special rank or position in society; the populace in [the dimension].

Technology

Progress-driven, yet measured, use of technology

A focus on forward or onward movement toward a destination, yet carefully considered; deliberate and restrained., use of 'systematic treatment'

Communication systems striving for mutual knowledge and shared understanding

A collection of individual communications networks, transmission systems, relay stations, tributary stations, and data terminal equipment (DTE) usually capable of interconnection and interoperation to form an integrated whole striving for facts, information, and skills acquired by each of two or more parties toward the other or others through experience or education; the theoretical or practical understanding of a subject and perception or judgment of a situation distributed between members of a group.

Fundamental respect for consensual use and development of new techniques

Forming a necessary base or core; of central importance with regard for the feelings, wishes, rights, or traditions of others for deploying (something) as a means of accomplishing a[n] agreed and 'felt together' purpose and a specified state of growth or advancement of novel approaches of carrying out a particular task, especially the execution or performance of an artistic work or a scientific procedure

Personally

Working towards common goals of the society I belong with

To do things that make progress to an aim or desired result that is distributed between members of the aggregate of people living together in a more or less ordered community [that] I belong with

Ability to focus my attention on projects I find important

Possession of the means or skill to do something to pay particular attention to throw forth, plan, and cause to move forward something prominent [that] I find of great significance or value; [and] likely to have a profound effect on success, survival, or well-being.

Variety of subjects that further my understanding and contribute to frequent unique experiences

The quality or state of being different or diverse; the absence of uniformity, sameness, or monotony of a person or circumstance giving rise to a specified feeling, response, or action that helps the progress or development of [my] power of abstract thought; [or to] progress intellect; and [to] help to cause or bring about a particularly remarkable, special, or unusual event or occurrence that leaves an impression on someone (me) occurring or done on many occasions, in many cases, or in quick succession

Definitions

Preference on the systems' agents' qualities exhibited (qualities of the agents of the systems)

Kindness – the quality of being friendly, generous, and considerate

Curiosity – a strong desire to know or learn something.

Motivation – the reason or reasons one has for acting or behaving in a particular way

Intelligence – the ability to acquire and apply knowledge and skills.

Open-mindedness – the willingness to search actively for evidence against one's favored beliefs, plans, or goals, and to weigh such evidence fairly when it is available

Non-frivolous – not lacking importance, seriousness, or a sound basis

Comfortable – providing physical ease and relaxation

Peaceful – free from disturbance

Productive – early 17th century: from French productif, -ive or late Latin productivus, from product- 'brought forth', from the verb producere

Fulfillment – the achievement of something desired, promised, or predicted

Progress-driven – a focus on forward or onward movement toward a destination

Measured – carefully considered; deliberate and restrained.

Consensual – mid 18th century: from Latin consensus 'agreement' (from consens- 'felt together, agreed', from the verb consentire) + -al.

Important – of great significance or value; likely to have a profound effect on success, survival, or well-being.

Variety – the quality or state of being different or diverse; the absence of uniformity, sameness, or monotony.

Quantifiable entities

Friends – a person whom one knows and with whom one has a bond of mutual affection, typically exclusive of sexual or family relations.

Peers – a person of the same age, status, or ability as another specified person.

Society – the aggregate of people living together in a more or less ordered community.

Members – a person, animal, or plant belonging to a particular group.

Resources – a stock or supply of money, materials, staff, and other assets that can be drawn on by a person or organization in order to function effectively.

Facilities – a place, amenity, or piece of equipment provided for a particular purpose.

Space – the dimensions of height, depth, and width within which all things exist and move.

People – those without special rank or position in society; the populace.

Technology – early 17th century: from Greek tekhnologia 'systematic treatment', from tekhnē 'art, craft' + -logia (see -logy).

Communication systems – a collection of individual communications networks, transmission systems, relay stations, tributary stations, and data terminal equipment (DTE) usually capable of interconnection and interoperation to form an integrated whole

New Techniques – novel approaches of carrying out a particular task, especially the execution or performance of an artistic work or a scientific procedure.

Ability – possession of the means or skill to do something

Focus – to pay particular attention to

Attention – notice taken of someone or something; the regarding of someone or something as interesting or important.

Subjects – a person or circumstance giving rise to a specified feeling, response, or action.

Motivational aspects for an individual or group

Goals – the object(s) of a person's ambition or effort; an aim or desired result

Activities – a thing that a person or group does or has done.

Projects – late Middle English (in the sense 'preliminary design, tabulated statement'): from Latin projectum 'something prominent', neuter past participle of proicere 'throw forth', from pro- 'forth' + jacere 'to throw'. Early senses of the verb were 'plan' and 'cause to move forward'.

Fundamental 'precepts' emerge from these notions

Ethos – mid 19th century: from modern Latin, from Greek ēthos 'nature, disposition', (plural) 'customs'.

Mutual Knowledge – facts, information, and skills acquired by each of two or more parties toward the other or others through experience or education; the theoretical or practical understanding of a subject.

Shared Understanding – perception or judgment of a situation distributed between members of a group

Fundamental respect – forming a necessary base or core; of central importance with regard for the feelings, wishes, rights, or traditions of others use and development – take, hold, or deploy (something) as a means of accomplishing a purpose or achieving a result; employ; and a specified state of growth or advancement.

Working towards common goals – to do things that make progress to an aim or desired result that is distributed between members of a group contribute to – help to cause or bring about further my understanding – help the progress or development of my power of abstract thought; progress intellect;

frequent unique experiences – a particularly remarkable, special, or unusual event or occurrence that leaves an impression on someone occurring or done on many occasions, in many cases, or in quick succession